THE KNICKERBOCKER for DECEMBER. The December number of this mose pipular miscellary is as varied and interesting as usual, and we shall take an early upportunity of noticing it more at length. In the meantine, we serze with avidity upon the gent of the number, in the fem of a pretical effusion, from the gent of Col. Morris, of the Wirror, in which that accomplished writer has illustrated in a sort of metrical picture, the agony and heart-rending distress of Julia, the braubled personation of all that is feminine, heroic, and lender in the Hunchback of Knowles. The lines will speak for themselves; and we transcribe them without further comment or useless eulngy. They must appeal at once to every sensitive and geneous beart. We have rarely seen a better adaptation of the language, thought, and forcible expression of the old dramatic worthies of the English school. -- N. Y. Spir. of the Times.

From the Eastern Bepublican. MONOPOLIES.

ation and accountability, as it is dangerhouesty, are left to take care of tnem selves-at least they do not monopolize these virtnes. We do not advocate the doetrine that what is wrong in others is right in us. It is not a sound principle in ethies, law, or politics. A monopoly is a monopoly, and a bank corporation, and should be so considered, let it cut where it may, So long as acts of incorporation are granted to accomplish any work of public improvement perfect equality of privilege cannot be enjoyed, but this in a measure grows out of inequality which a ways did and will exist Yet entailed and hereditary monopolies may be prevented by cantions and wise legislation, which brings as to the main point of our argument, to arge upon the members of the next legislature, the absolute importance of the demand made upon them, by the people, that they look well after monopolies.

From the National Gazette. Mr. Editor: 1 remark in your paper of this evening (M nday,) the following Notice and paragraph.

Ten days have duty devolved upon them by the meeting b which they were consituted, was of a distinct character requiring immediate action. If it is deemed impolitic to perform the task assigned them, to wit, to make preparations for a general Town Meeting with a view to the selec tion of delegates to a national convention, with what propriety are they now to be assembled as "the friends of Mr. Clay"? I yield to no citizen of the Republic in a warm attachment to that distinguished statesman and Whig, ported that General Latapie had been but I can perceive neither policy nor aim in again presenting him, (if such be the design of the meeting) to the people of the United States as a candidate for President. No one more sincerely deplores the prevalence of a feeling among the people adverse to the "pretensions" of Mr. Cloy, than I do, but it is gross infatuation to close our eyes to the fact that such a feeling does exist. If we are to he so easily misled, and induced to adopt opinions erroneous and fatal to our common purpose, as those indicted by he proceeding adverted to,-by the "enthusiasm" of a meeting composed of about wo hundred gentlemen who, ever since 1823, have desired the elevation of Mr. Clay to the Chief Magistracy, there is a termination of our efforts and an end to all hope of further promoting the cause of the Whig party, by a distinctive organization.

One word in reference to the proposed convention. The reasons for this conclusion are apvote for a ticket the success of which might, in any event, contribute to the election of Daniel Webster? Would the Anti-Masons of Pensylvania and Vermont support electors who could, in any contingency, be induced to vote for Mr. Clay? Would the advocates of a protective Tariffand Internal Improvements, in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, Western Virginia, Indiana, Illinois, the remainder of the Middle States and New England, or the opponents of Nullification and Columbia Convention Democracy, lend their countenance and aid to a measure which might end in their complete discomfiture?

The Newark Eagle says, "Several of the Whig papers, and among them the Newark Daily. Paterson Intel igencer, have questioned the truth of Governor Vroom's assertion in his message that the law for the suppression of small Bank bils had gone into operation without inconvenience. Such opinions are evidently advanced more to sustain their previous predictions that such would be the case, than from existing facts. We are prepared to state from our experience that the assertion of the Governer is true. Resolved, That we conceive the aforesaid Ordinance concerning wood-hauling, not only unconstitutional in their character, but detracting from the rights of the freomen of the county, directly calling in question their honesty and integrity; but at the same time calculated to impeach the good sonse of the citizens of Lexington, Resolved, That were we so disposed, it would be found impracticable to comply with said Ordinance, without considerable pecuniary sacrifice on our part, inasmuch as the quantity of wood which we may from day to day, haul to Lexington, will entirely be governed by the preearious situation of our roads, and accidental circumstances which may befal our teams.

Resolved, That we have a high opinion of the good sense and capacity of the eitizens of Lexington to trade for theinselves, (at least so far as it regards the purchase of a load of wood,) and if they arc disposed to submit to the guardianship of others to act for them, we, as free and independent citizens of the county, must beg to be excused from the guardian eare of all others, and claim the right of acting for ourselves.

The number of officers in it proper that the operations upon two of the most important works, Fort Calhoun and take away this kind of population fire, just as her screams had brought formance of the various duties commit- and the Delaware Breakwater, should be temporarily suspended. Experiments have been made to test the effects and probable extent of the causes which were" in operation, and which threatened to injure, if not to destroy, the atility of these works. It is believed that the depression of the foundation of Fort Calhoun is so nearly checked, that further danger is not not to be apprehended. But as will be seen by the report of the Quartermaster General, the experiments at the Breakwater have been so decisivo as to settle the question connected with that work; and has been thought best to ask of Congress an appropriation for one hundred thousand dollars, which, under any probable circumstances, can be judiciously expended. It is to be hoped that the experiments, which will be continued, and the scientific examination, it is proposed to make next season, will: furnish data for a just conclusion on the subject of this important structure, and indicate, either that the causes which have threatoned to injure its utility, have produced their full effect, or that they inay be counteracted by some change in the original plan. That improvements may be made in the several departments of the Military Academy, cannot be doubted. Nor can it be doubted that a thorough examination by Congress of its various concerns, whether administrative, financial, or instructive, would be highly useful, and would tend to its permanent melioration. Its results, so far as these can be judged by the character, conduct, and qualifications of the officers of the nrmy, about two-thirds of whom have been educated at this institution, have been decidedly beneficial. The standard of acquirement for the military profession, has been raised; habits of discipline and subordination, necessary first to learn, before the duty of command can be properly executed, have been acquired; elementary knowledge peculiarly adapted to n military life has been more extensively and accurately taught,. and we have been better chabled to keep pace with those improvements, which the nations of Europe bave made and aro making in this important branch of modern science.

Agreeably to your permission, I have have introduced into the estimates an additional sum for the armament of the fortifications. Without going into any unnecessary detail upon this subject at the present time, I will barely remark that this measure is called for by the actual state of our preparations, and by a provident regard to the dntv of self-defence. If no increase takes place in this branch of the service, many years must clapse before our fortifications and arsenals are Contracts for limited periods have from time to time been made, providing for the delivery of stipulated quantities; but as I had the honor to communicate to you in my annual report of November 21st, 1831, the act of Congress of March 3d. 1797, seems to present serious difficulties in the way of such an arrangement, and since that time no formal contracts has been made for the supply of cannon. The proprictors of these foundaries have been annually informed that if the appropriations would permit, and if cannon of designated quality and size were fabricated, these would be purchased. la this manner the subject has lingered, without any action on the part of Congress, and without any authority on the part of this Department, to make more efficient arrangements .- During the present year, the appropriation for the armament of the fortifications has been principally expended in procuring iron gun carriages; and the foundaries have not been employed in the fabrication of cannon for the military branch of the service. It is believed that this circumstance by deranging their operations has been seriously injurious, and if it again occur, it may induce some of them to discharge the workmen specially employed upon this business, and who may hereafter he collected with great difficulty. The Government now depends upon dependently of the considerations, presented having relation to the uncertain render it is portant that the Government should be its own manufacturer of this article. The cost of cannon, while this an object compared with the two qualities of strength and lightness.

With the exertions of the present manufacturers of cannon, so far as the necessary facts are known to me, I have reason to be satisfied. But it is sufficiently obvious, that in a branch of business where a slight difference in the material, and slight neglect in the process, produce irremediable mischief, and where, from eanses not easily ascertained, these defects may disclose themselves and in their annual communications, comand after the guns have resisted all the usual proofs, the manufacture of the article should be carried on where these. neglects are less likely to happen; where in fact, there can be no interest to use of showing its importance in the opinion of these eminent citizens, I have caused employ any other than the most skillful their communications to be examined. any other than the best materials, nor to artizans. Time and experience are necessary to found and nerfect an establishment for this purpose upon a scale suited to our wants. in detail the number of cannon now in the possession of the government, and distributed in its forts, arsenals and temporary posts, and the number that will be the fortifications already constructed, of east of the Mississippi river, appear to those in the process of construction, and be yielding to the conviction that their of those projected, and the number recessary for the proper demand of field residence in the West, offers the only raservice. It is sufficient to observe here, to justify extensive and vigorous arrangements, and this without reference to the perity. Both in the North and South the must always operate to reduce the stock this matter are encouraging, and we may on hand.

Such an establishment as the one contemplated, could be employed as well for the Navy as for the army; but, while I allude to its general usefulness, it is proper I should avoid all details peculiarly approprinte to another department.

A board of officers of the army and Congress, for the jurpose of examining this subject, and of devising a practicable plan for the organization, improvement, and efficient action of the militia. A mere organization would avail but little, unless inducements were held out for proper instructions and equipment .-And I consider, therefore, some provision for elementary instruction, and for such equipment as may be necessary to excite a proper emulation, indispensable to any improvement of our militia systemindispensable, I may add, to its very existence. An arrangement for these obcets would embrace the first classonly. It would, to be sure, involve expense, for an adequate compensation must be alowed to the persons required to be embodied at these schools of instruction, for few days in the year. And it would probably be found expedicat to continue he present plan of voluntary corps, with some changes, and to require them also o meet for improvement. It is in vain to expect that the whole adult male populaion of the country can or will furnish themselves with the articles required by law, or that their collection for any number of days they can afford to devote to this object, and under the usual circumstances of such assemblages, can produce any beneficial effect to themselves or their country. Already, in a number of States, the

I consider the experiments which have recently been made to provide for the maintenance of the Indians by reservawhelly failed. These tracts are too often sold for a very inadequate consideration, and the amount received is dissipated in expenditures either positively injurious or allogether useless. As soon as the remaining tribes shall disappointed, the failure must be attributed to the inveterate habits of this people, and not to the policy of the government. The arrangements for the coinfortable establishment of the Indians have been projected upon a scale suited to their wants and condition, and to the view to appreciate the advantages which have been secured to them, I deem it pro per briefly to recapitulate provisions that have been made. These are not applicable, in all their details, to each tribe, as some receive more and some less in amount, while certain articles are given to some and not to others. But the general principles of distribution apply to all. An extensive country has been reserved or them, and has been divided into dis-Inited States.

They will be separated too, from the setled portions of the country by a fixed boundary, beyond which our population cannot pass.

The operations of the Department of Indian Affairs are shown in detail by the report of the Commissioner, and by that of the Commissary General of Subsislence. It was anticipated that a consivould, ere this, have been on their way to the West. But recent information induces the belief that their journey has heen postponed, but under circumstances which will probably insure their early rethe Seminoles of Florida, far their removal, is in the process of execution—a portion of the tribe were not prepared to go at the time arrangements were first and when by the treaty they might have been required to depart. At their earnest solicitations, the measure was postponed until the coming winter, and asurances were given by them that they would then be prepared to remove.

A majority avow their readiness to comply with their engagements, and will no doubt quietly go as soon as the arrangements for their departure shall have been completed. To say that this is a reading age, implies a desire for instruction, and the means to gratify that desire. On the first point, all are agreed; on the second, there is diversity both of opinion and of practice. We have newspapers, magazines, reviews; in fine, pamphlets of all sizes, on nearly all subjects, which have severally their classes of readers and supporters. And yet, copious as are these means of intellectual supply, more are still needed. In addition to the reviews of the day, and passing notices of bnoks, the people, in large numbers, in all pairs of our great republic, crave the possession of the books themselves, and details beyond mere passing allusion, of the progress of discovery in an and science. But though it he easy to ascertain and express their wants, it is not the emportum of literature, eigrossing occupations which prevent personal application or even messages to libraries and booksellers, are so many causes to keep people away from the feast of reason, and the coj syment of the coveted literary alimeot. It is the aim of the publishers of the Li- style. Just opened by brary to ohviate these difficulties, and to enable every individual, at a small cost and without any personal effort, to obtain for his nwit use and that of his favored friends or family, valuable works, implete, on all the branches of useful and popular luciature, and that in a form well adapted to the comfort of the reader.
